

How to Keep Our Union Benefits

1. Be aware of the job protection, finances, quality of life and voice in decisions at work that strong union participation and membership provides.
2. Don't assume that our employer will provide these benefits without strong union membership.
3. Don't believe that "Right to Work" is designed to help working families. Learn about its history and who is behind it today.
4. Remember unions work – not just for the working class – but they help build our community as well. Being part of a strong bargaining unit is something everyone should be proud of participating in.
5. Be familiar with and use the additional benefits of membership on top of our contract that cover members and their families for things like education, insurance, towing, identity protection, furlough Benefit (for Public Sector) and more.

Our Union Contract has been negotiated every few years by members and union staff to strengthen our security and benefits at work. Union membership and participation serves our needs while strengthening our position as productive employees.
